From the Chairman's Desk

Dear Friends,

December was a high-velocity month for EICASA, marked by strong academic engagement, relevant technical content, and meaningful student interactions. The collective participation and energy from our student community remained consistently impressive throughout the month. We hosted multiple counselling sessions focused on exam strategy, time management, and handling exam pressure. These conversations were practical, experience-driven, and aimed at reducing anxiety while improving performance. The dedicated session for Foundation students received particularly positive feedback and reinforced the need for early-stage mentoring.

Our technical learning calendar remained robust with seminars on GSTR 9 & 9C, Project Financing, and Financial Modelling. Each session was delivered by experts and structured to expose students to real-world applications beyond the core academic syllabus. The engagement levels during Q&A and post-session discussions reflected the growing curiosity and seriousness among our learners.

The Mock Test Series continued to serve as an important tool for benchmarking and self-evaluation. Students across all levels participated actively. The structured testing environment helped students understand their readiness, identify improvement areas, and develop exam temperament — something coaching alone cannot provide.

On the cultural and co-curricular side, the Regionals for Poetry & Extempore allowed students to express themselves beyond academics. These platforms matter because confidence, articulation, and thought clarity are long-term professional assets for any Chartered Accountant.

We also had two major institutional events during the month — the CA Members National Conference and the Branch Foundation Day. Both were significant touchpoints for students to observe the larger professional ecosystem, engage with senior members, and understand the legacy and future direction of the profession.

Our digital outreach continued through E-Gurukul, with new episodes released for the benefit of students who prefer flexible learning formats. As we move into January, our focus remains straightforward: academic support, technical upskilling, industry exposure, and balanced personality development for our students. I encourage everyone to stay disciplined, ask questions, seek mentorship, and use every platform that EICASA makes available. The profession demands consistency and resilience — and these habits are built long before qualification.

My sincere appreciation to our faculty, resource persons, council members, volunteers, and most importantly, our student community for driving this ecosystem. The momentum is real, and we intend to build on it.

With warm regards,
CA. Vikash Kumar Choudhary
Chairman
Guwahati Branch of EICASA

From the Editor's Desk

December was not just the closing chapter of the year — it was a powerful reminder of how far dedication, discipline, and direction can take us. It was a month that reflected the true spirit of EICASA: continuous learning, professional exposure, emotional resilience, and a strong sense of community.

One of the most defining moments of the month was the CA Members National Conference 2025 – “Lakshya: Where Dreams Met Direction”, hosted by the Guwahati Branch (EIRC). While primarily designed for members, the conference offered students a rare opportunity to witness professional excellence at a national platform. The sessions on emerging opportunities, regulatory developments, and future-ready skills provided students with valuable insights into what lies beyond exams — helping them visualise the professional journey ahead with greater clarity and confidence.

December also focused strongly on strengthening technical foundations. From detailed sessions on GSTR 9 & 9C, both through E-Gurukul and a full-day seminar, to practical exposure in Project Financing and Financial Modelling, students were equipped with knowledge that directly connects academics to real-world application. These initiatives highlighted the importance of being not just exam-ready, but industry-ready.

Equally significant were the multiple counselling sessions on exam strategy and mental preparedness, including dedicated sessions for Foundation students. These interactions reminded us that confidence, calmness, and clarity are as essential as preparation. Managing pressure and trusting one's effort are skills that stay with us far beyond the examination hall.

Creativity and expression also found their place through the Regional Level National Talent Search Competitions, where students from across the Eastern Region showcased confidence, articulation, and originality — reinforcing the belief that communication and personality are integral to professional success.

As the year comes to a close, December leaves us with a powerful message: growth is holistic. It happens when learning meets opportunity, when effort meets guidance, and when ambition meets direction.

Let us carry this momentum into the year ahead — stronger in skills, steadier in mindset, and clearer in purpose.

With pride and purpose,
Mudit Surana
